GRANITE CITY — They had barely recovered from the tragedy of losing a member of their block to murder when the residents of Bryan Avenue had to brace for another shocker — the perpetrator may have been one of their own.

The narrow West Granite street, buzzing since the April 29 murder of Sheila Renee Hunt, was in an uproar again Wednesday evening with the arrest of Mark Allen McGuire. He lived at 2128 Bryan Ave.; Hunt lived at 2132, two doors away.

"We watched them come and get him," said Sheryl Horgan, a neighbor who lives across the street from McGuire. "His wife kissed and hugged him before they took him away."

Horgan and others helped paint a picture of the victim and the accused, with some giving varying opinions of McGuire.

"He was very quiet and he talked to no one, except one man, and (the family) only used the back door," said Horgan. "He had a spooky air about him."

But another male neighbor, who asked not to be identified, was more complimentary. "He'd help you fix the lawnmower, anything. You'd call him, he'd come right over."

McGuire and his wife, Karen, were in the process of separating, and Karen had been moving personal items out of the house as late as Thursday night, the neighbor said. McGuire was arrested Wednesday night.

The neighbor was not as complimentary about McGuire's wife. "There were times she'd stand out in the back yard and call him everything but a white man," he said.

He said McGuire had lived at the residence about 2½ years.

Speaking about the suspect, Horgan said McGuire and his wife never used the front door at their home and at one point McGuire had bolted or boarded the windows shut at the house.

In the last two weeks or so he's been different. He's been out playing with his stepdaughter in front of the house, carrying her around on his shoulders and trying to be nice.

Suspect may have also stabbed self

The man accused of murdering Sheila Hunt on April 29 suffered an apparent self-inflicted stab wound three weeks later, the Press-Record/Journal has learned.

According to police, Mark McGuire suffered a stab wound to the abdomen at 1:30 a.m. May 21. Initially he told police he was watching television, and listening to music in a bedroom when someone came in and stabbed him.

A subsequent investigation, resulted in the report being classified as unfounded, adding that the wound was apparently self-inflicted with a kitchen knife, police said.

McGuire was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment of the injury, a report said. The injury was not evident during McGuire's court appearance Thursday. Although records show he does have a scar on the abdomen.

A neighbor of McGuire said that McGuire called him the night of the stabbing to say he was being transported to the hospital. The neighbor, too, said McGuire changed his story several times as to how the stabbing occurred.

Letters add to steelworker dispute

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — In the two days following rejection of the steelworkers contract, National Steel lost 300,000 tons of worth of business, according to an open letter sent Wednesday by the company to its salaried employees.

And in a letter sent Tuesday the company told union employees that its contract offer is not going to get any better.

"We can't and we won't give more than what's in the package you rejected," said the letter signed by Richard P. Coffee, vice president-Human Resources. "If we do, we'll go out of business."

The National Steel contract, affecting steelworkers at three Midwestern divisions, including Granite City Steel, expires at midnight July 31. The proposed agreement, matching one recently reached with Bethlehem Steel, was agreed to by negotiation teams from the company and the United Steelworkers Union. National Steel workers turned

Company braces for worst

GRANITE CITY — Letters sent to employees of Granite City Steel aren't surprising, according to Buddy Davis, District 34 director, United Steelworkers Union.

"There is nothing in the letters different from what we told the members at our information meetings," Davis said Friday. "Sending out letters after a contract rejection has been done before. People not believing what the union said is not unusual — they only have our word for it — so they want to make sure their side gets down the contract June 19 by a 4-1 margin.

Coffee's letter to union employees said there seems to be a lot of misunderstanding about key points in the proposed agreement.

"Bethlehem's employees did not get more up front than you did. But the information is exactly what we told our members."

Davis helped negotiate the proposed contract and recommended its approval to the union membership.

Robert R. Toothman, spokesman for National Steel Corp., Granite City Steel's parent company, said this is the first time the company ever sent a letter, but also said this is the first time the company has ever been in this position.

Toothman said that beginning (See COMPANY, Page 6A) were offered. They gave up more in 1986 and they are catching up to you now."

"The proposed work rule changes at Granite City simply make those rules closer to National's other divisions and other steel companies. Even with these changes, there are still more work restrictions on the company than at other divisions."

"The immediate wage increase of 31 cents an hour does compare to the 50 cents an hour that was contained in the profit-sharing bonus plan. Wage and bonuses are calculated differently. There are 19 cents worth of benefits that go with the 31 cents an hour in wages. The total is 50 cents an hour."

"National Steel is not the most productive steelmaker, or even close to it. In 1988, and in the first quarter of 1989, National Steel had the lowest production among major steel producers."

The letter states customers have already begun to pull orders and that it is losing the money used to pay wages and benefits.

In the letter to salaried employees, also signed by Coffee, the company says, "As our business deteriorates, we will have to revise our offer to reflect our diminished ability to pay and provide security."

ON THE MARK: It's not a giant potato — It's a propane tank, found buried next to Petri's Cafe on 20th Street in the downtown area Friday. Dan Fricke of Granite City Sheet Metal drives a stake to mark off the area around the tank, which was removed later that afternoon. Excavation work determined the tank's presence, and some persons were concerned about the possibility of an explosion, until the tank was found to be empty.

Madison Avenue zoning action Tuesday

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — This Tuesday night, Madison Avenue, from the 2400 to 3000 block, could become the city's first B-1 zoning district.

The special zoning area is designed to allow an orderly transition of the area from residential to commercial and provide protection to the remaining surrounding residential areas, according to 7th Ward Alderman

Jeff Worthen, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Committee. Aldermen unanimously voted to place an ordinance establishing the district on first reading at the last meeting and it is due for final approval Tuesday.

The ordinance restricts the area to retail businesses with hours of operation from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. It contains strict requirements for screening, parking, access and signs that are not required in other commercial zoning districts.

Worthen said that, because of the commercial businesses now operating there, the city probably couldn't legally keep the area residential. This new district, he said, allows the city to control the inevitable development of the area.

"This is an alternative to having the whole thing go C-4 (Central Business)," he said.

For the past year, the city Plan Commission has attempted to use special-use permits to place similar restrictions on new businesses locating on Madison Avenue. The aldermen, however, have not always gone along with the recommendation of the Plan Commission to grant special-use permits.

Denial of special-use permits has not kept businesses from operating, and legal challenges by the city have never won in court.

The city attorney's staff has often said blocking commercial development on Madison Avenue is not defensible in court.

Educational Therapy Center going to Louis Baer

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

MADISON — District 12 found a tenant for one of its vacant buildings and will seek a buyer for another.

During Thursday night's meeting the board voted unanimously (with the exception of absent member Bruce Trotts) to approve a one-year lease of Louis Baer School, 1800 Rhodes St., to the Educational Therapy Center for a sum of $20,000 a year.

The board also agreed to contact the office of Regional Superintendent of Schools Harry A.

Briggs Jr. to put the former Madison Junior High School up for bid. Considered an "eyesore" by residents, past efforts to sell the building have been unsuccessful and public forums have rendered few alternate solutions.

From the ETC lease, the district will also earn an estimated $8,000 to $10,000 by providing hot lunches for the center which educates emotionally disturbed students.

ETC has tried to rent the school since early December when Granite City School District 3 began discussing plans to re-open Lake School, East 23rd and Illinois 162, where ETC has occupied one wing since 1984.

ETC move efforts were met with opposition from residents and the police department. Their concerns led to a public forum Feb. 4 which spawned the formation of a resident committee. That committee recommended that a lease be given to ETC on May 1 but with 11 conditional items to be included in the terms of the lease.

The 11 terms include:

- The school will operate a closed campus.
- Students will not be allowed driving privileges.
- ETC operates a reward system by which students earn certain privileges, driving to school being among those.
- Students may not smoke on the campus.

- Off-campus eating privileges should only be given with staff supervision.
- No on-street parking; personnel should be provided parking on the school grounds.
- Start and dismissal times should be scheduled so as not to coincide with those of District 12 students.

- Hot lunches for staff and personnel will be provided by District 12 food service.
- Student population should not exceed 50.
- Referrals should be exclusively from districts who currently send students, namely Edwardsville, Triad, Collinsville, Madison, Granite City and Ven.

The officer alleged Evans had about 36 bricks in the trunk of his vehicle, which he offered to return, a report said.

Rita Smith, owner of the building, said after hearing a crashing sound, nearby residents reported seeing the boys run from the area of the damage to the Novotny Chevrolet lot where they hid behind parked cars.

The trio then ran toward Madison Avenue, she said. The culprits were not located, the report said.

Railroad cited

A complaint citing obstruction of a railroad grade crossing was signed June 21 against Norfolk and Southern Railway Co. in reference to a single train blocking the grade crossings at 20th and 22nd streets.

Patrolman Edward Robertson reported the train, which included four Norfolk and Southern engines, was obstructing the crossings at 1:15 a.m. A call was made by another officer at 1:43 a.m. to the railroad's Wood River tower with an employee there reporting the train had no mechanical problems and would clear the tracks, a police report said.

Radar detector missing

Reinstatement of jail worker recommended

By Terry Hillig
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — A judge has recommended that a Madison County jail employee who claims she was the victim of sex discrimination be reinstated to her old job. Sheriff Bob Churchich, however, claims Joyce Rathmann wants to be reinstated to a job that no longer exists. He will fight in the courts, if necessary, he said.

The Human Relations Commission will rule on Rathmann's complaint, probably in six-seven weeks. The administrative law judge's recommendation is only advisory.

Rathmann was one of two Madison County Sheriff's Department employees who held the title of assistant jail superintendent when Churchich took office in late 1986. In her complaint, Rathmann said that although she had performed her duties satisfactorily, the title was taken from her in February 1987 and she was placed under the supervision of the other assistant superintendent, a man.

Churchich said the assistant jail superintendent position was one of several unapproved job titles that existed in the sheriff's department when he took office. He said he began to eliminate the unauthorized titles, but not all at the same time.

The male superintendent retained his title for a time and was given supervisory authority over Rathmann because he worked the day shift and had more seniority, according to Churchich.

"She lost no rank," Churchich said. "She lost no money. She lost a title along with some others who lost both rank and title," he said. Administrative Law Judge Kenneth N. Parker Jr. found that although Rathmann's duties were not significantly changed, she was demoted.

Ball marks return of American Steel

The return of American Steel Foundry to Granite City was marked with a commemorative ball last Saturday night, hosted by the Granite City Ambassadors.

Ambassadors President Elmer Stille presented Bill Donovan, manager of the Granite City plant of American Steel, with a plaque, during the fifth annual Ambassadors Ball held in the Meridian Room of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Stille gave a brief history of American Steel's almost 100-year connection with the city after which Donovan presented a short film detailing exactly what American Steel produces nationwide. He then projected measured growth for the Granite City facility in the future.

Dan Brown, president-elect of the Ambassadors, presented plaques to Mayor Von Dee Cruse, Vasil Efimoff and Dr. Albert Trijan, recognizing them as the founding fathers of the Granite City Ambassadors. Cruse was also cited for his role in helping to turn around the economy of the area, while Efimoff was recognized for bringing the idea of the Ambassadors to Granite City and patterning it after the St. Louis Ambassadors, of which he has been a longtime member.

MARKING THE RETURN OF American Steel Foundry are, from left: Bill Donovan, plant manager of the foundry; Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse, who was honored as a founder of the Granite City Ambassadors; Vasil Efimoff, also honored as a founder; Dr. Albert Trijan, honored as a founder; Elmer Stille, president of the Ambassadors; his wife Judy; and Dan and Rosemarie Brown, members of the planning committee for the ball.

Trijan, in addition to being one of the founders of the Ambassadors, was recognized for serving as its president for four years.

More than 225 guests in attendance at the Meridian Ballroom were treated to piano music during the cocktail hour, a dinner of sirloin tips in wine sauce and dancing to drummer Stan Fornazewski and his Big Band after the ceremonies. The Rev. Ralph Totten, pastor of Niedringhaus Methodist Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Stille said the Ambassadors were proud to welcome back "our good neighbor, American Steel, and are equally proud to recognize three gentlemen ... who have done so much over the years for the betterment of our community."

The Ambassadors Gala Committee consisted of Pat Hewlett, Margaret Hopkins, Cruse, Donna Fanning, Debbie Springle and Dan and Rosemarie Brown.

Dan Brown is president-elect of the Ambassadors.

State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, has been named as a member of the International Trade Committee of the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL).

The committee is one of 12 standing committees of the NCSL's State Federal Assembly (SFA). NCSL's policymaking body. The SFA is responsible for the conference's lobbying efforts before Congress, the White House, and federal agencies. The SFA convenes three times a year in Washington, D.C., and other parts of the country to meet with federal officials and develop recommendations on a wide range of national issues that affect state/federal relations. Wolf said the committee's agenda includes integration of the European community in 1992, imports, foreign investments in the United States, and evaluation of U.S. overseas offices.

Wolf represents the 11th District in Madison County.

"Many federal actions have serious consequences on the states," Wolf said, "and we are able to have an impact on these issues through the SFA and NCSL. As a member of the International Trade Committee, I will be able to express concerns specific to our state, as well as the concerns of state legislatures nationwide."

Foreign exchange students seeking host families here

Imagine being able to absorb the culture of a foreign country for a whole year without ever having to leave home.

That's exactly what the ASSE Student Exchange Program offers local families who want to host an outstanding teen-ager from abroad.

Having a European or Australian youngster become part of the family for an academic year gives everyone in the house the opportunity to learn more about themselves and the world they live in.

ASSE teen-agers are outstanding students from Europe, Australia and all points in-between.

They're motivated 15- to 18-year-olds who want to become part of an American household, which means they pitch in on everything from chores to family decisions. They're also enthusiastic about sharing the culture and customs of their own homeland. And although most ASSE kids are fluent in English, they love to help teach their own language to their American family.

Host families also gain a new perspective on their own way of life. Parents and kids alike come to appreciate lots of things they've probably taken for granted.

The ASSE Program is affiliated with the most esteemed government education departments in the world — the National Swedish and Finnish Departments of Education.

The United States Information Agency has officially designated ASSE as an exchange visitor program.

For more information, contact ASSE's local representatives Barbara and Wayne Reuter, 2017 Manley Ave., 876-0138, or call 1-800-333-3802.

Mike and Diane Corrado and son, Michael, and Theresa Klobe and sons Kyle and Erick were the dinner guests of Albert and Vivian Skaggs last week. Skaggs celebrated his 65th birthday.

A group of senior citizens enjoyed a three-day tour of Chicago, arranged by Tom and Juanita Crawley.

The group left St. Louis on Amtrak and returned on a new Capital Tours motorcoach. While in Chicago, seniors stayed at the Best Suites Inn.

On the first day, the group visited the Brookfield Zoo and saw a dolphin show. Some of the group took a tram ride through the zoo. The group also visited the Museum of Science and Industry.

On the second day, the visitors viewed three films about a mountain climber, a ballet dancer and a woman skier—in a Omnimax Theater of sight and sound.

"This was truly a unique educational experience, as it made each one feel as if they were a part of the film. It also explained how the heart and parts of the body work under the strenuous conditions," a spokesman said.

The group ate at the Dry Gulch restaurant, which featured the Chuck Wagon Western Opry House. They were entertained by Sheriff Bob, "Miss Kitty," the Dance Hall Girls and a matinee. They watched several comedy shows while being served a six-course meal.

Points of interest on the third day were the trading floor of the Chicago Board of Trade and the 103-floor Sears Tower with its 70-second elevator. The group visited the Navy Pier, took a two-hour cruise and ate a buffet lunch on the Spirit of Chicago before returning home.

Taking the tour were: Richard and Darlene Auran, Frances Pelate, Ellen Kovar, Bill and Pat Siebold, Albert and Cel Mance, Lorraine Nelson, Frances Gallauer, Lorrene Mueller, Garnett Willard, Cleveland and Pauline Cox, Roger and Geraldine Hoover, Mary Horvat, Veda Norton, Mickey Kruse, Theresa Horvat, Pete and Evelyn Ferro, Rudy and Helen Hofek, Ann Riddle, Lucille Whiteside, John and Nellie Dezan, Lucille Caban, Erma Manning, Rosemarie Breyer, Marie Stanek, Cleo Slusher, Bessie Bilyeu, Margaret Kwiatkowski, Ruth Ann Rotter, and John and Rose Juhasz.

Paula Brokaw of Memphis, Tenn., celebrated her 30th birthday last week at a barbecue and pool party given by her sister, Frieda Bolling, at her home.

Other guests were: her husband, Ed, and children Brandy, Mark and Megan; Stacey and Sandra McCoy, also of Memphis; Bob and Susie Eyster and children Shannon and Bobby of St. Peters, Mo.; Debbie Rutledge of Independence, Mo.; Harold Garner, son, Jeffrey, daughter, Tammy, and her daughter, Tabatha, all of St. Charles, Mo.; and David and Rhonda Garner and children Jason and Jennifer; Odie and Jewel Busby; and Steve Bolling and Steven, Jessica and Rebecca; Steve Wilson; and Lonnie Laster and her parents, Fred and Phyllis Laster.

LeRoy and Shirley Stark of Maryville Road had their daughter, Carolyn Fernandez, and her daughters Cheryl and Auto-nette from Helen, N.M., as guests last month.

The Fernandez family and their hosts visited the St. Louis Arch and Six Flags Over Mid-America in Missouri and the Fun Time Amusement Center in Maryville.

Mrs. Stark then accompanied the Fernandez family back to New Mexico, where she also visited her mother, Nellie Watkins, in Belen; her sister, Barbara Cavacoco, in Los Lunas; and her brother, Jim Hoffman of Albuquerque.

Dave and Janice Wolfe of Church Street hosted a backyard pool party for their daughter, Trisha Wright, in honor of her graduation from the Granite City High School. Trisha plans to continue her education by enrolling in business college this fall.

McGuire hearing Friday

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Mark Allen McGuire sat quietly, clasping his hands together and listening intently as Associate Judge Paul R. Riley explained some options available to a younger male prisoner who had been arrested the previous night.

The Granite City courtroom was virtually empty when McGuire, 26, was arraigned on murder charges at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

He wore handcuffs, leg shackles and a black Van Halen T-shirt, its emblem illustrating the rock group's 1984 concert tour.

Once in a while the chain around McGuire's waist clinked as he turned around to look at a young woman seated on the back row of the courtroom. She didn't know McGuire and was a bit uncomfortable by his scrutiny, she said later.

"First of all you need to know, if you are not already aware, these are extremely serious charges," the judge said to McGuire.

Riley read to McGuire the four counts contained in an informational warrant issued

Wednesday afternoon which charged McGuire with two counts of first degree murder, one count of aggravated criminal sexual assault and one count of arson.

The charges related to the murder of Sheila Renee Hunt, whose strangled and beaten body was found by firefighters in her burning home in the 1100 block of Bryan Avenue in the early morning hours of April 28.

McGuire, who lives two houses away from the victim, was arrested there at 6:12 p.m. Wednesday.

In the courtroom Wednesday Judge Riley asked, "Do you have an attorney?"

"No," McGuire replied.

"Do you have any money to hire an attorney?" the judge asked. Again, the suspect said "No," and gave the same negative response to other questions relating to his financial situation.

Asked if he was married or single, McGuire replied, "I guess I'm single."

"What do you mean by that?" the judge asked.

"I think my wife left," McGuire said.

"So there hasn't been a legal divorce?" the judge asked.

"No," McGuire replied.

"Then you are still married," Riley told him.

McGuire said that he has a stepdaughter.

Riley said a preliminary hearing will be held Friday, June 30, in the Madison County court in Edwardsville.

Chief Judge Charles V. Roman Jr. determined that McGuire should be held without bond, an order which will remain in effect until the preliminary hearing, Riley said.

"I'm going to issue a mittimus which is a document authorizing your transfer from the Granite City Jail to the County Jail in Edwardsville," Riley said.

"Do you have any questions?"

"No," McGuire replied.

"Do you understand the seriousness of these charges?" Riley asked again. McGuire nodded his head.

"The public defender's office will be notified and I urge you to cooperate with them," the judge said.

Police Capt. Kip Pomeroy escorted McGuire from the courtroom back to a Granite City jail cell.

The suspect was transferred to the Madison County Jail at 1:58 a.m. Friday.

In 1982 industry-wide contracts were negotiated by a joint committee and that companies didn't begin individual bargaining again until 1986.

"So in anyone here's lifetime, we've never faced this situation," Toothman said.

"Inland (Steel Corp.) has a tentative proposal with the same wage and benefits as we have work things out. But they've got to understand we can't dig any deeper into our pockets."

Davis said he sent out letters and pamphlets Thursday to the seven locals at the three National Steel divisions telling them to prepare for a strike. He said they included explaining how to set up and operate committees, strike headquarters and picket lines.

He said the locals need to plan to set up welfare committees to handle individual hardships with rent, utilities and other creditors.

"Right now, today, I can see no alternative," Davis said.

Davis said he sent out letters to avoid it, I'd like to avoid it, but they say they can't afford more and my members voted to do it."

"There is no other possibility I see."

Toothman said: "Right now, the only one talking strike is Davis."

Davis said he said to Granite City Vice President and General Manager Bill Swanson has sent out a letter to department heads informing them to begin arranging for an orderly shutdown, warning customers and other attending to other details.

"Any good plant manager would do that. But we are hoping to avoid a strike," he said.

•ETC

"The district maintains the right to periodically review the program."

"Summer session will be allowed only by written consent of the district."

"These special requests have been agreed upon by Mr. Horgan and by ETC officials," Superintendent Dan Kostecki said. The items are listed within the actual lease.

With school starting in about two months, ETC officials were relieved to see the lease finalized.

"I'm cautiously optimistic that the public will come to see the program in a positive light," David Blue, ETC director, said.

"We do a lot of good things."

Blue said ETC should begin moving into Louis Baer during the next few weeks.

Local Odd Fellows take part in anniversary

James Crain, noble grand of Tri-City Odd Fellows Lodge No. 1031 in Madison, said plans are under way to mark the anniversary of the chartering of the Odd Fellows Children's Home in Lincoln.

The home has served nearly 1,700 children from all walks of life over the 100 years. Members from Granite City will be visiting the site June 24 for a luncheon, Crain said.

Odd Fellow Lodges originated in England around the year 1745 as members banded together to assist one another in times of adversity, and to provide for their widows and orphan children. The order was brought to America in 1819 by Thomas Wiley who devoted his lifetime to organizing Lodges throughout the country. He started the first Lodge in Illinois at Alton in 1838, and the Grand Lodge of Illinois in 1838. The local Odd Fellows Lodge was formed in 1916.

Tri-City Lodge has 60 members. Keeping to their tradition of caring for the children, the IOOF Orphans' Home, as it was originally known, was established on 40 acres of donated land in Logan County in 1889. With a bank account of $10,000, the doors officially opened in 1890 for 63 waifs. With the passing of time, new buildings were added until, at its height, the Home boasted grades K through 8 grammar school, domestic science facilities, a wood working shop, hospital, gymnasium, plus extensive farming operations.

As social programs proliferated, aid to dependent children, and social security, the need for a large complex diminished. In 1967 a new building designed to provide residential care for 32 children was constructed. That building is also used as a fully-licensed day care facility for 125 children.

Granite City holds a daylily show.

Judging will begin at 11 a.m. and conclude by 1 p.m. Following the judging, the public is invited to wander through the display of more than 100 varieties of daylilies. There will be no admission charge. Plants will be sold from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Anyone wanting more detail may call the show chairman, Alexis Lux, at 451-1924.

Willing Workers to be in parade

The Willing Workers will hold its monthly meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday at the YMCA, 2001 Edison Ave., according to President Steve Ortiz.

The group will discuss its upcoming participation in the Labor Day Parade in September and Mexican food stand at the end of the parade.

Ortiz also announced that no meetings will be held in July and August.

Ahlers asked the leaders to submit names of Cub Scouts who receive "Slash the Trash" badges and award badges to quality as a Quality Unit for 1989.

Pack 15 was the first-place winner in the Shrine's Parade. The trophy was presented to the pack's sponsor, Eagles Aerie 1126.

Cub Scouts who attended a three-day summer camp showed Indian projects they had made.

Games were played. The next meeting will be the Bike Rodeo on July 20 at the parking lot of Frohardt School. The meeting was concluded, and the colors were retired.

Other lodges represented were Carlin Lodge of Alton, Collinsville, Madison Delray and Pride of St. Clair, Lebanon.

Door prizes were won by Norma Chesterman, Thelma Edwards and Dorothy Bertram.

An instructive talk was given by Rogers.

The lodge was closed in due form, and refreshments were served to 43 members.

Fatima Circle hosts president

The Daughters of Isabella, Our Lady of Fatima Circle 835, met at the Knights of Columbus Hall on June 1, when Mary Ann Becherer, president of the Springfield Diocese Council of Catholic Women was honored.

Regent Dorothy Hoedebeck presided. Eugenia Stanfill led a prayer.

Peggy Crnkovich has invited the members to her home for a barbecue for the next meeting, on July 6.

A social hour followed the meeting and refreshments were served.

KNIGHTS IN SHINING ARMOR: A check for $200 was given to the Granite City Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program recently by the Knights of Columbus Ladies Auxiliary 1098. From left: K. of C. President Cleo Schinello; Treasurer Betty Gac; Secretary Jean Stanfill; and DARE Committee and Health Services Chairman Dr. John Vassioff.

GRANITE CITY — Ralph Burnett made the call about a week ago.

The Triplets manager said then Brian Harshany might be the team's best pitcher. On Friday, Harshany made that statement look pretty good. He pitched a three-hit shutout as the Triplets won their fourth in a row, 5-0 over Highland (4-4).

Harshany took a no-hitter into the sixth, then tired a bit in the seventh before getting Jay Cryder on a fly ball to right with the bases loaded to end it. Granite City was 7-3 in District 22 play heading into Saturday's game at Smithton.

"I told the guys it's hard to believe, but the season is half over," said Burnett. "I thought we might be 9-1 at this point because of the two Troy games, but there were a couple of games we could have lost that we won."

Friday's game was all Harshany, with a little help from Keith Matlock and Kurt Hodges. Matlock homered in the first for the only run Harshany would need. Matlock then drove in another run in the third after Chad Lignoul had singled and Chris Bartling walked. Hodges knocked out Highland starter Matt Odorizzi with a two-out two-run double in the fifth to make it 4-0.

The Triplets added the fifth run in the sixth when Matt Schnefke reached on an infield hit and eventually scored on sacrifice fly by Bartling. Harshany had to run the bases in that inning and Burnett felt that might have caused him problems in the seventh.

"We sent him up there to hunt Matt to second and then get him back to the bench," Burnett said. "But naturally they threw the ball away and he had to run the bases. Brian was out there the whole inning and never got to come back to the dugout."

Adam Koishor and Todd Sands singled to start the seventh and moved to second and third on an error by Hodges in left field. But Harshany pitched the shutout after John Heimar grounded to short and Tyler Morris struck out. Harshany (2-0) issued his only walk to Brady Von Hatten to load the bases before getting Cryder, who had broken up the no-hitter with a single up the middle to lead off the sixth.

"I thought he had a chance at it," Burnett said.

"We seem to bring out the best in their pitchers," said Highland manager Wayne Wirz, who saw more than he wanted of Devin Hendrickson last year. "We had scored 20 runs the last two nights against hard-throwers. This kid had a good breaking ball and we just couldn't adjust."

Harshany had nine strikeouts, mostly on breaking pitches. He would have had a perfect game through five innings, but Schnefke overthrew first base after Travis Holt had struck out on a pitch in the dirt in the fourth. The ball also got past Matlock in right field and Holt went to third with one out. But Matlock made a strong throw home after catching Koishor's fly ball and Holt stayed at third.

Sands grounded to shortstop Rich Schardan to end that inning.

Harshany's next start will likely be Thursday when division-leading Edwardsville comes to town. The Triplets play at Bethalto on Monday (6 p.m.), host Waterloo on Tuesday (8 p.m.) and travel to O'Fallon on Wednesday (8 p.m.).

Granite City topped East St. Louis 14-10 on Thursday. Chris Wiebe, four-pitcher, got strong innings of relief to get the win in his first action in weeks.

'Never nervous' Purdes takes bowling gold at Sr. Olympics

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Dr. Alice Purdes knew she was close, but she didn't know exactly how close. It wouldn't have mattered. She wasn't nervous.

As Purdes, 58, of Madison, stepped to the line for her final shot in the National Senior Olympics women's 55-59 bowling competition Thursday morning at the Strike and Spare Lanes in St. Louis, she figured a gold medal was close at hand. She didn't know it at the time, but she needed eight pins to tie and nine to win.

But she made sure. Purdes rolled a strike and walked away with the gold medal. The fact she had taken first place in a national competition didn't overwhelm her. "Or did it?"

"I didn't think I was nervous at all," she said. "But as I stood on the stand, the ladies on either side of me said my hands were trembling."

Purdes, who teaches at Venice Lincoln Technical Center, had games of 161, 216 and 203 on Thursday. With a 104 handicap, she finished with a 684. Betty Evans of Pennsylvania finished at 682 with a 66 handicap. So it was a close call.

"I've fared well in my division," said Purdes, who finished fourth in the 1987 National Senior Olympics. "I was confident I could place. But I'm used to bowling in the evenings. I'm not a morning person."

But she was wide awake every morning this week. It all started Monday with 400 bowlers in her division. It came down to six on Thursday. But Purdes said the atmosphere was not pressure-packed.

"You don't get nervous out there," she said. "There is not as much competition as there is camaraderie. Everyone helps each other out and cheers for everybody. We're not out for blood."

Purdes usually bowls on Tuesday evenings at Granite City Bowl. She's been bowling since she was 10, when she started at her father's (Joseph) lanes at the old Madison Bowl. She has bachelor's and masters degrees in education from Illinois State and a Ph.D. in humanities from Florida State. She has won countless trophies and awards from her bowling over the past 40 years.

"A lot of people competed in other events and were too tired to bowl," she said of this week's competition, in which more than 3,500 senior athletes from across the country gathered. "I don't profess to do anything else athletically except bowl."

And she did that better than anyone else in her division. For winning the gold, Purdes automatically qualifies for next year's National Senior Olympics in Syracuse, N.Y. She is sponsored by Bill Frazier's State Farm in Granite City.

Purdes took gold medals in the regional and state games in 1987 before finishing fourth in the nationals. She also took golds in regional and state competitions this year, then finished it off in high style this week.

"I averaged 186 for nine games, which isn't too bad for a 58-year-old," said Purdes, who brought a 169 average in. "I didn't know what I needed on that last shot to win, but it didn't matter. I'm a good pressure bowler. And I picked a good time to get a strike. You can't beat that."

Deadly runt of a viper on film anything but box-office poison

Danny DeVito is typecast in the movies as a poisonous runt. But he used to be a lovable hairdresser working in his sister's salon in Asbury Park, N.J., in the 1960s. He did 35 "heads" one New Year's Eve and built quite a following.

"They still ask for Mr. D," his mother bragged to People magazine a few years back.

But now, the people most fervently asking for Danny DeVito are studio executives. "OK, Danny, now take a little off the top, but keep the profits high."

DeVito—against all odds, given his balding, pudgy, shrimpy layout—has transformed himself into one of Hollywood's most bankable screen stars. In Tinseltown, he's now worth many times more than his weight in gold. Literally. If you figure gold at $863 an ounce, and DeVito at 160 pounds, that means his value comes to a mere $904.40.

DeVito's last film, "Twins" (1988, MCA, $89.98), which hits home video June 15, took in $103 million. "Ruthless People" (1986, Touchstone, $19.95) and "Throw Momma from the Train" (1987, Orion, $89.98) were big hits, too. DeVito is scolding hot. Right now he's directing "The War of the Roses," a comedy starring Michael Douglas, Kathleen Turner and himself, for 20th Century-Fox. He plays the sleazy divorce lawyer handling the split-up of the other two stars.

Most everybody knows DeVito for his work as the dictatorial foul-mouthed dispatcher on "Taxi," as well as for his aforementioned recent films. But there's a pile of lesser-known roles, and personal trivia that the public should know.

The reader is entitled to know that I consider Danny DeVito one of the greatest actors of this people's far eclipsing the self-conscious Meryl Streep. I also know some obscure facts about him.

Do you remember DeVito in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" (1975, HBO, $29.95)? He played Martin, the seriously repressed mental patient DeVito landed the part with the help of old buddy Michael Douglas. The two met doing summer stock at the Eugene O'Neill Foundation in Connecticut, and stayed close. DeVito used to ride on the back of Douglas' motorcycle, sublet Douglas' New York apartment, and dropped by Douglas' University of California at Berkeley house blaring "Legs" by Douglas even got DeVito a bit part in his father's 1973 flop "Scalawag," which was shot in Yugoslavia.

DeVito also had parts in Jack Nicholson's "Goon South" (1976, Paramount, $19.95), "Going Ape" (1981, Paramount, $49.95), which was a comedy with Tony Danza, and "The Van" (1977, Simlar, $29.95), a California pickup-chicks flick. Then, of course, there's "Terms of Endearment" (1983, Paramount, $19.95), in which he plays Vernon Shriver MacLaine's speechless admirer. "Romancing the Stone" (1984, CBS/Fox, $29.98) and "Jewel of the Nile" (1985, CBS/Fox, $29.98) where he plays a petty con and "Tin Men" (1987, Touchstone, $19.95).

But beyond all that, three of his underwatched earlier roles really deserve a second look. "The Ratings Game" (1984, Paramount, $79.95) is a snappy spoof about a thug-like Newark trucking boss who topples the television networks' stranglehold by manipulating a horrendous show to the top of the ratings through a scam.

An irresistible comedy that DeVito directed and starred in with his wife Rhea Perlman of "Cheers," it debuted on Showtime and The Movie Channel, and, unfortunately, a lot of people have missed it.

At one point in the film, DeVito brags that entertainment is in his blood. "Remember how I used to knock them dead at family weddings with 'Volare'?" he asks his brother, who replies: "You were 6 years old. You finish your broccoli, they give you a standing ovation."

"Head Office" (1985, HBO, $79.95) is a lame-plotted spoof of mega-corporate life, is also worth seeing, mostly for the vignettes contributed by Don Novello (of Father Guido Sarducci fame), Rick Moranis and, yes, DeVito. Danny—dead by the 15-minute mark—plays an executive who's fired when newspapers discover he has sold off 50,000 shares of stock the day his company's factory closes.

By the time he reaches the office, a crew is ripping out his carpet and his sink, and hauling off his desk and chair. "Beware the furniture movers," whispers a fellow employee.

When DeVito tries to set up a tete-a-tete to enlist the aid of the ultra-ambitious Jane Seymour, she begs off: "I've got racketball tonight. We'll have to reschedule."

Finally, there's "Wise Guys" (1986, CBS/Fox, $79.95). DeVito and Joe Piscopo play lowest-level hoods, the "somebody" who fetches coffee and takes care of the don's grocery shopping and dry cleaning.

In a hilarious scene, DeVito must start the don's car, and the boys inside the bar are betting thousands on whether the bomb will be in the door or the ignition. The plot, which meanders around a Mob double-cross on a racetrack bet, doesn't quite cut it, but DeVito—with his roots in Asbury Park—has the gangster role just right, down to the pitiful swagger.

Best bets: "The Experts" (1988, Paramount, $79.95) Another flop for John Travolta that raced out of theaters. Travolta and Argy Gross find themselves shipped to an "American town" set up in Russia by the KGB.

"Alien Nation" (1988 CBS/Fox, $89.98) James Caan and Mandy Patinkin star in this sci-fi thriller about aliens living in Los Angeles who sort of resemble 20th Century-Fox honcho Barry Diller.

"Haunted Summer" (1988, Media, $79.95) Poets Byron and Shelley frolic at a lakeside mansion in Italy. High-brow sexual high jinks.

Highland implements on display in special show

Steam engines, antique tractors, stationary engines and horse-drawn implements will be an even bigger part of the second annual Homestead Old Time Power Show in Highland, Aug. 11-13.

Located on a historic farm where the ground will be worked, the wheat harvested and threshed the old-fashioned way, the southwestern Illinois show will be only 35 miles from St. Louis on Interstate 70 and 17 miles north of Interstate 64 on Route 160.

The show committee is planning more demonstrations and more accessible displays as well as wider participation than in last year's event.

The show is held at the Latzer Homestead, where Louis Latzer began life as son of a pioneer dairy farmer and became founder and president of the Pet Milk Co. The house grounds and 40 acres of wheat fields now are owned by the Highland Historical Society. The power show there is the outgrowth of a threshing demonstration during the town's Sesquicentennial in 1967. Still sponsored by the society, the power shows are involving much more of the community and participation is expanding into more of southern Illinois and Missouri.

For last year's show and demonstrations, there were eight steam engines, more than 30 old tractors and about 20 antique gasoline motors. A team of Belgium horses hauled the hay bunnies up to the Nichols and Shepard separator in an old hay wagon. The separator had been restored by the late Erwin Weder of Highland.

Several steam engines took part in the actual threshing. These included a 1910 Gaar-Scott of the Weder family and a 1902 Keck-Gonnerman of Joe Graziana of Wood River. Tractors on display and in the parade included the 1916 Waterloo Boy of Bob Berberich of Lebanon and the 1916 Mogul of Kenny Bohanon of the same area. Gordon Kamper of Freeburg gave a blowing demonstration with his huge 1922 Altman-Taylor tractor with the eight-foot wheels.

Last year Bill Alexander, whose oldest gas engine on display was a 1915-16 Fairbanks-Morse, hitched up one of his engines to run an antique cider press. This summer, engines will be demonstrating not only cider making, but also a shingle mill, burr mill, antique water pumps, log sawing and other operations.

More horsemen and women from the area also will be participating. Demonstrations of horse-drawn farming will be given by people who still farm with horses.

Again this year, old farm implements and memorabilia will be displayed in a restored barn built in the 1850s. There will be tours of the restored turn-of-the-century house. A large show-sale of pioneer arts and crafts will be held on the spacious lawn in the deep shade of the ancient trees. A "flea market" also is planned.

There will be plenty of food, lemonade, iced tea and soda for participants and spectators.

For more information, call Don Seifried at the evenings at (618) 654-2581.

Weekend TV highlights: Cards flick

Baseball, music and movies—that's essentially the sum of new programming available this weekend.

Cardinals try to improve their luck against the Pittsburgh Pirates when they take on the Bucs today (Sunday) on KPLR-TV (Channel 11) from Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh. The game begins at 12:30 p.m.

A 1989 made-for-cable movie, "Traveling Man," premieres at 7 p.m. today (Sunday) on HBO; the movie was made by director Ken Kesey, who directed the best of the "Star Wars" trilogy, "The Empire Strikes Back." John Lithgow is cast in the title role of an on-the-road salesman for a megacorporation, covering the Southeast in periodic swoops of swashbuckling sales panache. But the writing is on the wall for Ben (Lithgow), whose boss now is reporting a vice president who impersonally intones "No one is indispensable," and makes it clear that personal slush is not allowed in his bottom-line approach to life.

Ben is compelled to take along a "hookie" sales agent, a woman who is eager to strike big deals, regardless of the ethics, or lack of ethics, involved. The kid, Billy Fox, has what it takes to succeed in this cutthroat environment, and even reminds Ben of himself to a certain degree.

Ben's somewhat pointless life is given a new focus, however,

By Mark Bretz

John Rhys-Davies in devious fashion. The scientist wants to learn the secrets of a 25-year-old man he refers to as the "future of evolution" of the human race 5,000 years into the future.

"The Gifted One," it turns out, was adopted at birth when a kindly doctor (G.W. Bailey), benevolently, if unethically, took the unwanted son of a leech-gate girl and, at her request, gave the boy to a young couple whose own son had died shortly after childbirth. Young Michael then goes home to the placid, all-American existence of his new parents, and his powers gradually become manifested.

"The Gifted One" follows the familiar man-on-the-run theme popularized in the past such shows as "The Fugitive," "Run for Your Life" and "The Invaders," and also borrows plot devices from such series as "Orson" and "Superman." It employs tunes by the likes of Simon and Garfunkel, Bruce Springsteen, Dire Straits and even the soundtrack from "The Natural" (how dare they!).

There is nothing new in "The Gifted One," but Kowanko is a pleasant and earnest fellow who works hard at being sincere. If the plot garners great ratings, it possibly could turn up next year on the NBC network schedule as a mid-season replacement.

Dancers among VP Fair entertainment

Members of several regional dance groups will perform at this year's VP Fair on Education Day, "America's Largest Classroom," July 3. These cultural groups will entertain fairgoers and teach them about various American cultures.

Puerto Rican Dancers
This local Puerto Rican dance troupe, known as Coqui, will dance and play the guitar and songs as they perform dances from different Puerto Rican areas. These dances include the "Pleña," a fast folkloric dance describing events affecting the island, and the Cumbia, a Colombian folkloric dance. Maria Maldonado, co-director of the Coqui, says, "I feel that the Coqui raises the awareness of our strong cultural roots." (For more information, contact Marie or Tony Maldonado at 921-6391.)

Irish Dancers
The St. Louis Irish Arts School of Music and Dance will bring a taste of Ireland to stage as they present Irish music and song and Irish dance. Children and teenagers will play traditional instruments and perform several types of dances including reels, jigs and hornpipes.

This year two school members are going to Ireland to compete on the international level.
Indian Pow Wow Dancers
The University of Missouri's Cultural Heritage Center, in Columbia, will bring the Indian Pow Wow Dancers from Kansas City to the VP Fair to teach about America's different tribes.

Choreography Contest
Auditions are being held for local dancers interested in choreographing their own "Work of Difference" dance. Sponsored by the Anti-Defamation Leagues, the contest is aimed at bringing people of different cultures together. Participants will audition before Education Day and winners will compete later that day. For more information about the contest, call Ron Jackson at (314) 432-6873.

African Heritage Dancers
This youth group will take fairgoers around the world as they perform African, Caribbean and African-American dances. The presentation, featuring singing, dancing, drumming and oral communications, will be highlighted by a black history rap dance. Safiyyah Chauvin, founder and director of the African Heritage Dancers, says, "By presenting a total Pan-African experience, our group shows the similarities and differences in the African culture."

East Boogie
From East St. Louis, this group will present the opening number and finale scene from "East Boogie," a play depicting the problems of living in the East St. Louis community. Because of his love for the community and theatre, playwright Frank Nave began writing the play in 1985 while Valerie

Brake use vital to accident prevention

The following article is by Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

The ability to stop quickly is one of the keys in preventing accidents. If your brakes appear to be losing some of their stopping ability, do not hesitate to have them checked.

The brakes are one of your vehicle's most important, but often neglected, safety systems, according to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club. Following are several warning signals that may indicate your brakes are about to fail:

- You hear a scraping sound or other noise when the brakes are applied.
- The vehicle pulls to the left or right during braking.
- The brake pedal vibrates.
- There is a decrease in pedal pressure or a change in the distance the brake pedal travels.

Brakes should be inspected by a qualified mechanic at least once a year. Vehicles driven in urban areas need to have brakes checked more often than vehicles driven on the highway because stop and go driving takes a faster toll on brakes.

The auto club also recommends that you check the brake fluid reservoir level monthly. On most cars, the reservoir is attached to the firewall in the engine compartment on the driver's side. Most late model cars have a sight glass so you can see the fluid level without removing the cover. Before adding any brake fluid, read your owner's manual to determine the correct fluid to use.

Water safety to be taught

The Granite City Park District will be offering the American Red Cross Water Safety Course for those wishing to become a lifeguard.

The class will meet July 10-21, Monday through Friday from 8 to 11 a.m. The cost for the session is $5 for park residents and $10 for non-residents. Registration will begin on June 26 at the Wilson Park office.

It will be necessary to have at least 10 people register to hold a class. For more information, call the Wilson Park office at 876-7466.
